THE FINAL DAY.

Convention Hall, Kansas City, July 6,—The final day of the Democratic national convention broke clear and hot, The sun blazed pitilessly down through the same brilliant sky that has marked every day of convention week, and the cloudless blue gave no promise of relief from the intense heat. But the grateful wind which has saved the week from being intolerable, did not forsake the sweltering crowds today. It blew steadily from the southwest, hot, it is true, from the southwest, not, it is true, from its passage over the plains, but nevertheless a wind. It stept in through the great windows at the south end of the hall, fluttered the bunting and these and fenned the yest ing and flags, and fanned the va-hour before the convention hall was opened, dense crowds were packed around the various entrances and hundreds more were coming on either thoroughfare that afforded access to the building. About thirty minutes after the doors were opened, the galleries were all occupied and still the crowds around the entrance and in the streets had suffered no diminution.

REGULATING THE CROWD.

Yesterday the hall was so densely packed that it was at times impossible to move around upon the floor, onefourth of the delegates were unable to see the chairman and three-fourths of them could hear nothing uttered from the platform. The aisles were choked up to a degree that was dangerous and ssage through them was at all times difficult, and late in the evening it was This morning the police and sergeant-at-arms started in with vigor to prevent anything like a repetition of the disagreeable feature of yesterday's second session, and for a co siderable time met with success, but they were gradually overwhelmed and made comparatively helpless by the heavy crowds that were allowed to pass by the gate keepers. The crowd was not as terrific as that last night-the great feature-the reading of the platform and the nomination of a candidate for the presidency being over.

Sulzer was the first vice presidential candidate to appear in the hall, and his appearance seemed to excite very little interest. He came down the aisles from the delegates' door, coat thrown open, hat jammed hard down on the back of his head, his tall form towering over a smaller delegate at his side across whose shoulders his arm was caressingly thrown and into whose ear he talked with great energy.

BOUQUET OF SWEET PEAS. At 10:45 a. m. Chairman Richardson advanced to the front of the platform. a great bouquet of sweet peas in hand and with a sweep of the gavel cut off the strains of the band, slowly stilled the conversation and brought the convention to order for its third day's But it was some minutes before there was sufficient quiet for the open-ing invocation, and then the great audience arose while the Rev. Rabbi Mayer of Kansas City delivered a prayer, breathing the sense of respon-sibility resting upon the convention.

TOO MUCH CONFUSION.

Immediately following the prayer the call of States began for the purpose of making nominations for the vice presi-Great confusion prevailed and very few of the delegates were aware of what was going on until Alabama and Arkansas had been passed and California had been called. Then the doughty form and florid face of Sena-tor White emerged from the Californians, and in stentorian tones he demanded to know what was going on and that the aisles be cleared of the disorderly intruders. When the chairman responded that California was being called for nominations. Senator White announced that California yielded to Arkansas, and Arkansas yie to Illinois to place in nomination Adial

Now all business was suspended, as the confusion has become so overpow-ering that the call of the secretary was inaudible above the roar. The police and sergeant-at-arms struggled vainly to dispossess the mob which was well nigh in control of the floor. Men fought to retain their places and there were many exciting encounters which at times threatened to precipitate a fight under the eyes of the multitude. It took fifteen minutes to restore some semblance of order and then the spokesman for Illinois, Representative James Williams, presented the name of Steven-

When the roll call reached Connecticut that State gave way to Minnesota amid cheers and cries of

The galleries joined in the applause with fervor, but there was ess enthusiasm among the men on the

By degrees the enthusiasm spread throughout the delegations and in a short time men were up in the States of Washington, Wyoming, Montana and South Dakota, but there was much less than that which bad rises to the less than that which had risen to the name of Stevenson.

HILL REFUSES.

While the galleries were enthusing over Towne there was an excited little group about the chair of ex-Senator Hill. In it was Croker.

Mr. Murphy then gave an indication of a pre-arranged scheme to nominate Hill by saying to the excited Jersey men: "You keep quiet and it will be all right. We have it fixed."

CONFUSION IS GREAT.

Meanwhile the confusion continued to be so great in the hall that even af-ter Chairman Richardson had recog-nized Gov. Thomas of Colorado to sec-ond the nomination of Mr. Towne, not ond the nomination of Mr. Towne, not a word of his speech could be heard by either the delegates or the people in the galleries. Finally, after Gov. Thomas had been speaking for a minute or more, former Senator White went to the platform, and in a ringing voice warned the convention that if order was not restored, he would move that the galleries be cleared.

When the State of Delaware was called, the announcement was made that the State would yield to New York. Then the result of the Hill conference was apparent. A tremendous shout of appliause swept through the hall. Delegate Grady, one of the leaders Tammany hall, had already ascended platform, and as he stepped to the nt to address the convention, the | man in the convention. use and cheering increased.

HILL IS NOMINATED.

His first sentence rang through the great building in trumpet tones: "On behalf of the Democracy of New York I present to this convention for the nomination for Vice President the name of David Bennett Hill." It was dramatic in the extreme. The effect was electrical. His words set the conven-tion in a frenzy of enthusiasm.

The scene which followed was far the nost tempestuous of the session and the ne of Hill echoed and re-echoed ough the hall. State standards were eized and held aloft and the conven-eized and held aloft and the conven-ion was canopied with fluttering flags and handkerchiefs. A DRAMATIC PLAY.

It was a pretty, even a dramatic scene play. All the while the convention was pulsating with enthusiasm and cheers. When, finally Mr. Grady was permitted to proceed, he said that Gov. Hill might decline, but "Decline or not," he shouted, "New York's united and solid 72 years will be cast to the and for 72 votes will be cast to the end for David Bennett Hill." While Senator Hill, on the platform, waited for quiet and for Senator Grady to finish his speech, he kept repeating, "I will not take it." To Senator Grady is absolutely unfair. You should not do it."

Judge Van Wyck kept urging him to accept, and not make a declination. Hill was obdurate. His face was like marble, his hand trembled, and he wiped the perspiration from his brow. While Grady was speaking, Hill asked to see Sepator Lones and when the chairman Senator Jones, and when the chairman of the national committee came, the ex-senator said to him: "Jones, stop this thing. It is not wise. It should not be forced upon me. Help me stop it."

HE WOULD NOT TAKE IT.

Chairman Jones said:
"I will help you. Go on and decline and I'll help you out. I'll see the delegation leaders. You are right. Go on and make your speech."

Then Senator Hill advanced to the platform. He stood with head bowed a few minutes, expressive of gratitude for the cheers—that rolled in heavy volume toward him from every part of the hall, and when finally there was a chance of his voice being heard, he chance of his voice being heard, he spoke, saying he could not accept the

When Massachusetts was called, Hon.
George Fred Williams ascended the delivered in clarion tones, carrying to the uttermost parts of the hall, he paid a handsome compliment to the State of New York, which he declared was unitedly in favor of the platform and ticket of this convention. For this reason no State in the Union was entitled to greater consideration than New York. This was received with a shout of approval, the belief becoming in some manner prevalent that Mr. Willams was about to second Hill's nomination. nation.

WANT A DEMOCRAT.

"The name which seems most desirable in the interests of the party," Mr. Williams declared, "is that of a man who is intellectually and morally the peer of the candidate for first place, Mr. Charles A. Towne."

Cordial applause was given to Mr. Towne, but it was tempered by the re-mark from one of the delegates: "We want a Democrat; this is not a Populist convention," and other expressions that raised in question Mr. Towne's democracy. In response to these re-marks Mr. Williams insisted that Mr. Towne was as much a Democrat as any At the conclusion of the speech

The audience then received Gov. Stone of Missouri with great enthusiasm, rising to its feet and cheering and waving flags, while the band played "Dixie." When he spoke it was with deliberation, and he was given strict attention, particularly by the local audience. His eulogy of Teller and Towne called for a burst of applause, and his sentiment that even if they had been Republicans, their support of had been Republicans, their support of silver and Mr. Bryan entitled them to seats in this convention, was the signal for more enthusiasm. His closing remarks, seconding Stevenson, and saying that all who differed in 1896 should be welcomed to the party in 1900 if they would come, was applauded. Nebraska passed in the call for nomi-nees, saying they had nobody to present as a candidate. Nevada had Newlands present their views. He nominated Towne as their choice, and, when he mentioned the name, there were calls for a vote. The audience was displaying its impatience

speech in favor of Stevenson.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.-Most of the members of the Utah delegation will leave here tonight for home, expecting to arrive in Sait Lake on Sunday evening. Representatives of the Salt Lake newspapers who accompanied the delegation will also start with them. They all thoroughly enjoyed the proceedings last night, when Hon. William J. It was an inspiring sight, when, upon the announce-ment of Mr. Bryan's name, 20,000 voices went in the air and as many flags waved a spectacular accompaniment. CLOSE CALL FOR HIS LIFE.

"Son" Gough Came Near Being Killed by Constable Wall.

Had Trouble With the Officer During the Day-Thought to be Lying in Wait. [SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS."] Eureka, July 6.-There was a lively shooting scrape at Diamond last night -one that came near costing "Son"

Gough his life. That he escaped death is marvelous. The circumstances which ed to the shooting are briefly as fol-During the day Constable Peter Wall had occasion to make several arrests for drunkenness. In the performance of this duty he incurred the displeasure of a considerable crowd of which Gough was the acknowledged leader. They threatened that they would "do" the constable before he went to bed last On his way home Wall found two suspicious characters lurking about his house as if in wait for him. He conluded to take no chances with them and acted quickly. Drawing his re-volved he took deliberate aim and fired. A cry went up that told very plainly that he had hit his man. A hurried investigation showed that Gough was the victim. Dr. Hosmer was called and in an examination found that the bullet had entered the upper part of Gough's chest and that it had ploughed its way entirely through his body, grazing one of his lungs in transit and lodging in his back directly under the skin from which place it was easily remove Gough, though badly wounded, is expected to recover. Deputy Sheriff Cronin and County Attorney Pike went over from Eureka today to investigate the circumstances. Their visit seems to be an exoneration for the constable as they concluded to make no arrests. Gough formerly resided at Payson and has a wife and children now living in this district.
